

FTAW Colonel Nut of Grangemead
“Bruce”
Imported, 2003

Bruce is the only British Field Trial Award winning chocolate Labrador ever to have been exported from the United Kingdom. British chocolate Labradors holding a field trial award from the British Kennel Club are rare indeed. Bruce is a proven hunter of both upland and waterfowl birds. He displays consistent style and speed in the field. Even at his young age, Bruce was an extremely popular stud dog in England prior to his departure.

Bruce has a desirable game finding ability expected in a Wildrose dog combined with a calm temperament. His heavy coat is very dark chocolate and his features of a dark pigment. His head, tail and physical stature exemplify the perfect “stamp” of a classic Labrador. Bruce is a welcome addition to the Wildrose gundog stock.
